Message

Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) have become ubiquitous amongst government ministries and departments across the country. The increasing adoption and use of ICT has increased the attack surface and threat perception to government, due to lack of proper cyber security practices followed on the ground. In order to sensitize the government employees and contractual/outsourced resources and build awareness amongst them on what to do and what not to do from a cyber-security perspective by following uniform cyber security guidelines in government offices across the country, the security posture of the government can be improved. All government employees, including temporary, contractual/outsourced resources are required to strictly adhere to the guidelines.

Message

Internet, the most interactive technological platform of this century, has become an integral part of our daily lives. It is a learning and communication tool that offers us a wide range of opportunities. It is an invaluable source of knowledge and encourages creativity and imagination. Internet ethics involves our approach while using it for different purposes. We should be aware that we should always be honest and respect the rights and property of others on the web.

Cybersafety is the safe and responsible use of information and communication technology.

Similarly, students should be taught to be safe online and to practice good habits and “Netiquette” (Internet Etiquette) while surfing the internet rather than blocking and restricting.
